LOCAL ITEMS.

The coldest night of the season was last night.

Mr. Ernest Walker is home from Provo Academy, where he has been taking a missionary course.

Dr. Middleton gave a sociable to the officers of the mutual improvement association last Wednesday night.

The Cedar Stock Company intends to put another of their entertaining dramas on the boards in the near future.

Forster Thorley is a victim to the prevalent wave of ill health that seems to be so much in evidence in this city.

A Valentine party was given by Miss Spencer and Eastwood and Mrs. Driggs of The Branch Normal, last Friday night.

Miss Mamie Worthen of St. George, who has been attending The Branch Normal this winter underwent an operation at the hands of Dr. Middleton this week.

Mr. John Chaffin, formerly of this place, and now of Iona Bingham Co. Idaho is visiting friends and relatives in this city, and will probably remain a week or two.

St. Valentine's day was celebrated in the district school today, to the no small delight of the pupils. Valentines, cakes and candy were distributed, and a fine time was had.

Mary Ann the fourteen years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burke of this city died yesterday, she has been ill for a long time. The funeral will be held Saturday.

Ice holds are quite prevalent amongst our people at present, and even the wealthy has not been able to escape, the mercury having tumbled twelve degrees below zero last night.

Mr. J. G. Spencer formerly of the Kanab office is a frequent visitor at The Branch office. The gentleman is in excellent health, which is inspiring confidence in the supervision of our famous dam.

Mr. Porter of Orderville Kane Co. who is spending a few days with the members of his family who are attending the Branch Normal, addressed the saints, and also the sinners in the Tabernacle last Sunday.

BASKETS made and repaired. CHAIRS tatted, and all kinds of case and basket work done with neatness and dispatch by Jacob Mitchell.

Empire of Fred Ashdown, either at his residence or at the Fire & Ashdown Blacksmith Shop.

Nearly Forfeits His Life.
A runaway almost ending fatally, started a horrible ulcer on the leg of J. R. Ormer, Franklin Grove, Ill. For four years it defied all doctors and all remedies. But Bucklen's Arnica Salve had no trouble to cure him. Equally good for Burns, Bruises, Skin Eruptions and Eczema. 25c at J. H. McDonald's Drug Store.

Beaver city is discussing the question of water works, and a committee has been appointed by the city council, consisting of two of their number to collect information on the subject from other cities where water works are in operation, and report it to the council. It is expected that the question of bonding will soon be submitted to the Beavers.

It may not be generally known, but it is a fact nevertheless, that a number of our most public spirited citizens are at work continuously on the problem of a consolidation of the water interests of Conifer Creek. This step should be taken is too apparent to need any argument, but just how to bring it about is a problem worthy of the wisest minds we have among us.

A little two years old child in Mantle Sappet county came very near losing its life last week through falling head first into a tub of suds which the mother had left standing on the floor after finishing the family washing. It took half an hour's manipulation to restore the little sufferer, and no doubt it will be an object lesson to the mother, and a warning to other mothers. We cannot be too careful.

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore, North Star, Mich.

They had a four thousand dollar fire in Richfield last week, which destroyed a saloon, and badly injured a hardware establishment. From what the Reaper says they have the material for as fine a fire brigade in that city, as is generally found if they only had the tools for the work.

When you feel blue and that everything goes wrong, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse and invigorate your stomach, regulate your bowels, give you a relish for your food and make you feel that in this old world is a good place to live.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Parowan Promptings

Feb. 11th, 1903.

Dr. McGregor has had a very busy week, and the end is not yet, as it is almost impossible to navigate our streets without getting ones feet wet.

At a special meeting of the City council Tuesday night, Mr. James U. Miller resigned his position as city marshal, and Mr. Jacob B. Gould was appointed to succeed him.

Most of us were startled on Sunday morning to learn that Joseph P. Dalton died at ten p. m. Saturday. He was around town Saturday apparently in his usual health. His wife died just one year ago, and the children, some six or seven in number, are left without the guiding hand of a parent. The youngest child is not two years old. The bereft ones have the sympathy of the entire community.

"Not that I love Caesar less, but Rome more." The Record man is to be congratulated on taking up the cudgels in behalf of the people rather than in favor of the classes. Wonder if the judiciary has been asking for higher salaries, if not why are the lawmakers running after them with higher salaries? No danger of the judges jumping the job, is there? If so there are a host of other fellows who would be glad to take their places. The judges ought to be well paid certainly, but are they not well paid? The Record is liberal in its estimate of the daily wage of the poor fellows who have to foot the bill. A number of freighters here have not cleared one dollar a day for the last year, with a four horse team; and many a farmer in Iron County got absolutely nothing for his labor on some of his acres in 1902 and very little for three years before. I have read the article in the Record once, and am going to read it again, and write men at the end of it. The Deseret News has been the champion of the misunderstood people of Utah for a lifetime; and we don't want it to grow weary of well doing; it should let the other fellows do the toadying. That fine old Englishman John Howard, said more than a century ago, I will not flatter a full stomach not insult an empty one. We don't want the Deseret News to help flatter the full ones by pinching the empty ones. Not loving the Deseret News less but the taxpayer more.

Normal Notes.

Some of the stenography experts have been seen taking notes in chapel this week.

At last the third years met and appointed a president, secretary, and treasurer. The act took place Tuesday.

It has been Mr. Porter's turn in chapel this week; he has given some most excellent shots to the student body on "The relation between brother and sister."

Any one having a long leg he wishes amputated call at the manual training laboratory. This week the musical director saved off a chair leg with perfect surgical skill.

The general history class has begun on the period of European history; in addition to this, some time is devoted at each recitation to seeing how the present current events can be applied to those of ancient history.

Monday morning the front seats of the chapel hall were occupied by the new officers of the school city. After the oath was administered the retiring mayor gave a farewell speech and his successor an inaugural address.

The examinations are working rather a hardship on the third year students this week, they have had an oral one in chemistry, a written one in Physics, already, and will have one written in chemistry on Friday.

Teacher in Gen. History—What have you learned about the world thru the news this week? Student—There is a big prize fight going to take place soon. A roar of laughter. Student—I can't see anything funny in that to laugh about. It suggests a great deal to me. Teacher—Yes, we shall discuss it.

There was quite a stir among the members of the third year class when a notice appeared in the rack, to the effect that those who expect to complete the three years course were to hand in a petition before Feb. 12, stating the studies completed, and these get to complete. The classes met and on account of some not wishing to comply with the requirement, a committee was appointed to confer with the Principal

Stateline Samples.

Came too late for last week.

Feb. 4th, 1903.

A three days storm piled up two feet of the beautiful on the level.

Mrs. A. Dupont after an absence of six months returned to camp during the week.

During the week the Johnny hoist was moved, and is now in position at the new shaft.

The force at the Leland was doubled one day this week. The sensational strike is hourly expected.

At the mass meeting constable Parker received an unanimous endorsement for reappointment as deputy sheriff.

Rev. E. Stinson, head of the salvation army for this Southern country, departed from Salt Lake City, yesterday to report for duty wherever he may be assigned.

George E. Teasdale, manager of the Blue Jay extension properties, at the west base of Indian Peak, took out a couple of miners and a wagon load of supplies the past week. Manager Teasdale says they intend to install a gasoline hoist and do some extensive prospecting the coming season.

Leonard the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Walker passed away early yesterday morning. The little sufferer was taken down with the Lagrippe, some weeks since and all efforts to relieve his sufferings were of no avail. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the entire community.

Lee Scott returned from his southern prospecting trip a few days since. He brought numerous relics from the district he visited. A couple of mixologists in camp, who are familiar with the southern country and its inhabitants, received some tokens of remembrance from the trip. The tokens are the handwork of natives, and created no little merriment among their friends.

The Richfield Reaper says. About two weeks ago a young man of Monroe called on his sweetheart. A storm came up and the girl's father asked him to remain over night. He was a bashful young man and next morning, when seated at the table, was very nervous and agitated. He sat opposite the mirror, and discovered he had forgotten to comb his hair. Then he dropped his fork on the floor and as he stooped to pick it up he upset his coffee. Matters went on from bad to worst until finally the young man quit eating and put his hands under the table. The loose end of the cloth was lying in his lap, and when he touched it he turned pale. He thought it was his shirt and that in his nervous excitement while dressing he had forgotten to put the garment inside his trousers. That accounted for his embarrassment. There was no time to lose. He hurriedly stuffed the supposed shirt inside his trousers. Two minutes later when the family rose from the table, there was a crash. The dishes lay in a broken mass on the floor. The young man pulled three feet of table cloth out of his pants and fled through the door. He is now hiding, and the girl is on the lookout for a less bashful lover.

A New Fashioned Girl.

She'd great and varied knowledge, picked up at a female college, of quadratics, hydrostatics, and pneumatic very vest;

She was stuffed with erudition, as you stuff a leather cushion, all the ologies of the colleges, and the knowledge of the poet.

She had studied the old lexicons of Peruvians and Mexicans, their theology, anthropology, and, geology o'er and o'er;

She knew all the forms and features of the prehistoric creatures—Ichthyosaurus, plesiosaurus, megalosaurus, and many more.

She'd describe the ancient Tuscan, and the Etruscan and the Etruscan, the griddles and their kettles, and their victuals that they gnawed.

She'd discuss the learned charmer, the theology of Brahms, and the scandals of the Vandals, and the scandals that they trod.

She knew all the mighty giants, and the master minds of science, all the learning that was turning in the burning mind of man;

But she couldn't prepare a dinner for a gaunt and hungry stunner, or get up a decent supper for her poor, voracious papa, for she never was constructed on the old domestic plan—
Hearth and Hall.
